

Afterlives with Kara Cooney
Episode #3: Demystifying Academia, Part 1
Kara Cooney & Jordan Galczynski

Kara and Jordan chat about their paths into academia and the process of getting into graduate school and in particular Egyptology or ancient history programs.

- The FAQ section on Kara's website is excellent, and offers practical advice and suggestions to students at the high school, undergraduate, and graduate level who are interested in pursuing the study of ancient Egypt: <https://karacooney.squarespace.com/faq>
- On the subject of the choice to enter graduate school in the Humanities and the topic of student debt see the following articles.
 - "Graduate School in the Humanities: Just Don't Go" in The Chronicle of Higher Education (January 30, 2009) by Thomas H. Benton
 - "Master's Degrees Saddle Graduates with Debt" (August 2, 2021) by Mark J. Drozdowski
 - "Graduate programs have become a cash cow for struggling universities. What does that mean for students?" PBS.org (September 18, 2017)

Follow Kara on social media:

Facebook: Kara Cooney – Egyptologist

<https://www.facebook.com/karacooneyegyptologist>

Instagram: @karacooney

Twitter: @karacooney

YouTube: https://youtu.be/TrS5Uo_SgtU

Follow Jordan on Twitter:

@JAGalczynski

<https://jagalczynski.squarespace.com>